Reopening of Prosecution

New Ground of Rejection After Appeal or Examiner's Rebuttal of Reply Brief In view of the Appeal Brief filed on 12/27/2004, PROSECUTION IS HEREBY REOPENED.

A new ground of rejection is set forth below.

To avoid abandonment of the application, appellant must exercise one of the following two options:

- (1) File a reply under 37 CFR 1.111 (if this Office action is non-final) or a reply under 37 CFR 1.113 (if this Office action is final); or,
- (2) Request reinstatement of the appeal.
If reinstatement of the appeal is requested, such request must be accompanied by a supplemental appeal brief, but no new amendments, affidavits (37 CFR 1.130, 1.131 or 1.132) or other evidence are permitted. See 37 CFR 1.193(b)(2).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 5, 7, 12 and 14 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The term " less/more transparent " renders the claims indefinite because it is unclear about a point that must be exceeded to begin producing the less or more transparencies or given effect to elicit a response. Examiner would like to know what are the ranges of the transparencies of the claim invention, since Applicant claims less/more transparencies? Does Applicant mean less/more transparencies equivalent to opaque and brightness modes? Does Applicant compare less/more transparencies with a background or/and foreground object(s)?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-2, 4-9 and 11-14 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kuriyama et al, hereinafter Kuriyama, and further in view of Cobbley et al. hereinafter Cobbley.

1. Re. claims 1 and 8.

Kuriyama in fig. 1 illustrates a front view of a portable information communication device, which covers the preamble of the claim, as follows: "A portable computer controlled user interactive touch responsive read/write display pad comprising". Kuriyama in figs. 3 illustrates the following part of the claim: "a display screen displaying text and graphics". Kuriyama in fig. 2 illustrates a tablet 13 of a touch panel 14 has a transparent flat area corresponding to the display area of the display panel 12 and superposed on the display screen of the panel 12, see following section of the claim: "a transparent touch sensitive pad covering said display screen". Kuriyama in fig. 3B illustrates cursive drawing touch input for displaying such drawing on said display screen. Kuriyama in fig. 3A illustrates displaying a full character keyboard on the display screen. Kuriyama in figs. 3 illustrates responsive to touch inputs to characters on the keyboard for displaying the touch keyboard inputs as text entries within said displayed text and graphics.

Art Unit: 2672

Kuriyama in figs. 3 illustrates a “switch” i.e. relating to a program that responds to user activity, see last part of the claim: “means for selectively rendering either one of said means responsive to cursive drawing or said means responsive to inputs to touch keyboard non-interactive, while the other of said means remains interactive to thereby permit the unimpeded functioning of the means remaining interactive”. Examiner’s interpretation: The claim invention does not clearly specify what the claim invention claims, however, the interpretation concludes that the claim invention includes a port for attaching an external input e.g. a keyboard. The first prior art Kuriyama in fig. 2 illustrates items as key-in and radio unit i.e. considered as inputs, beside the tablet display and controller. Kuriyama does not explicitly specify the touch sensitive keyboard is transparent to the text or graphic area. But, Cobbley in col. 2, lines 28-45 teaches focusing (transparency) may be changed by using a hardware button, see fig. 1, 514.

Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to substitute applicant’s described structure by modifying Cobbley’s transparency support 202 in fig. 3 into Kuriyama’s fig. 2 sections rom 22 and ram 23 in order to display on 12 using display driver 12a. This modification may be accomplished what the claim invention claims.

2. Re. claims 2, 9 and 11, Cobbley in fig. 1 illustrates the claim invention.

3. Re. claims 4, 5, 7, 12 and 14, Cobbley in col. 2, lines 28-45 teaches focusing (transparency) may be changed by using a hardware button, see fig. 1, 514.

4. Re. claims 6 and 13, see rejection of claim 1.
